JOLLY RED MEN.

Give Thanksgiving Ball at the Opera House.

WAS A SOCIAL SUCCESS

Attendance Large and the Costumes Worn Elaborate. Delightful Music Rendered. Names of Prize Winners.

One of the most pleasing and enjoyable affairs that has been given in Deming for some time was the Thanksgiving masquerade ball at the Opera house last Thursday evening under the auspices of Huachuca tribe, No. 18, Improved Order of Red Men.

This was the first annual event of the kind to be given by the local order, and the committee in charge spared neither pains nor expense on the preliminary arrangements. Announcements were made in season and up to Thursday evening the fact was kept before the people that there would be "somethin' doin'" that night. And but a few moments before the hour for the entertainment the final gentle reminder was sprung, in the way of a march of the members of the tribe in full regalia from the wigwam to the Opera house. The parade attracted considerable attention, and it and the manoeuvres and evolutions at the hall brought forth much favorable comment.

The attendance was large and representative, and the costumes of the maskers handsome, unique and elaborate. In many instances originality was strikingly apparent and the judges, upon whom devolved the task of naming those entitled to the prizes offered, had all that was coming to them. They were not to be envied their duties, but when the awards were announced all agreed that they were fair and just.

For the best sustained lady character Mrs. S. A. Birchfield and Miss Huntington divided honors and prize. They were attired in like costumes.

J. I. Cox, impersonating James Tracy, was awarded the prize for the best sustained gentleman character.

The most elaborate lady's costume was decided to be that worn by Mrs. Wigginton, who was duly awarded the prize, while Joe Tuttle wore the most elaborate gentleman's costume.

During the evening a number of popular musical selections were excellently rendered by local talent and at intermission lunch was served.

Socially and financially the ball was a success, enjoyed alike by those who took part in the merry mazes and those who merely looked on, and the Red Men are to be congratulated for the very creditable manner in which the function—their first annual—was conducted. It augurs well for the success of any public entertainment the lodge may have in view for the future.
